REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

A convention of the republican party of the state of Wisconsin will be held at Madison on Wednesday, April 30, at 12 o'clock noon, for the purpose of electing four delegates and four alternates from the state at large to the national convention to be held at Chicago, June 3, 1884, to nominate the electoral ticket, to select a republican state central committee, to act upon the proposition of the state central committee as to the change of basis of representation in future conventions, and to transact such other business as may be brought before the convention. Each senatorial and assembly district is entitled to two delegates to the convention.

All citizens are invited to co-operate in the election of delegates to the convention, who are in favor of elevating and dignifying American labor protecting and extending home industries without discrimination in favor of any class or interest, giving free popular education to the masses, securing free suffrage and honest counting of ballots and effectually protecting all human rights in every section of our common country, and who are willing to support the nominees of the national republican convention.

The republicans of the various congressional districts shall have the option of electing their delegates at separate popular delegate conventions, held in the congressional districts at any time within the fifteen days next prior to the meeting of the state convention, or by subdivisions of the state convention into district conventions; and such delegates shall be chosen in the latter method if not elected previous to the meeting of the state convention. All district delegates shall be accredited by the officers of such district conventions.

It having been the practice heretofore in this state to select district delegates by subdivisions of the state convention into district conventions, it is advised by the committee that that method of selecting delegates and electors be continued.

The democrats should establish a museum of curiosities—made up of defeated democratic candidates. It would be an interesting collection of relics.

Mr. Orrin A. Carpenter, the alleged murderer of Zura Burns, can see a silver lining to the cloud. The testimony against him is all in, and his case gives him much hope.

If the democrats want brains and personal integrity in a candidate for the presidency, why don't they take up ex-Senator Thurman? But in their case the bar'l is of more importance than intellect or probity.

The report sent to the Chicago Journal regarding the lumber interest of northern Michigan and Wisconsin lead that paper to say: The lumbermen of Michigan and Wisconsin are in good spirits. The winter has been one of the most favorable ever known for "logging," and they are prepared for and expect a very lively trade the coming season.

Mr. Tabor, who had the honor to sit in the United States senate 30 days, and whose Washington night shirt cost $75, will make an attempt to run for governor of Colorado. He is spending a good deal of money in that direction, and has started the report that he has struck a new silver mine. A rich mine gives a man a wonderfully strong political boom in Colorado.

The naughty Chicago Times indulges in the following comment of Miss Mather: "Margaret Mather's arm, from the shoulder to the wrist is pronounced the finest anatomical development on the American stage. It is a sad reflection on the dramatic taste of the day that Miss Mather's finest anatomical development is not in the right locality to excite the strongest public interest."

A sensation that was solemn and entirely unexpected, occurred at the annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church at Baltimore, on Monday. The Rev. George A. Register, pastor of the Central Methodist church of that city, arose in the conference and to the utter amazement of the conference and the large assembly, stated that he had decided to leave his church and people and become a member of the Protestant Episcopal denomination. After being pressed to further consider the subject, he said his decision was unalterable, and amid solemn stillness—the audience being bowed in tears and sorrow—Mr. Register passed out of the church.

The annual report of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway for the year 1883, has just been completed. It is one of the most gratifying reports ever made by that great and enterprising corporation. The net earnings for the past year amounted to $9,881,735.53, an increase of $1,681,132.88 over those for 1882. This shows that 1883 was not such an unsatisfactory year for business as it might have been, for railway earnings cannot be large unless general business is active. President Mitchell says, "the condition of the company's property was never better than at the present time, and that from the indications of business the officers are led to hope that, with average crops, the increase in earnings for 1884 will equal that of 1883."

The Ohio legislature has finally passed a bill which provides that the contract system of employing convicts shall not exist in any form in the Ohio penitentiary, but the prisoners shall be employed by the state, and in such way as to, in the least possible manner, interfere with or effect free labor, and the managers shall use every effort to so dispose of all merchandise as to avoid injurious competition with any business of citizens of the state, and all prisoners under the age of 22 years shall be employed at hard work exclusively, for the purpose of acquiring a trade. The managers are required to employ all prisoners that are necessary in making all articles for the various state institutions as far as practicable, and the institutions shall pay to the penitentiary the market price for all of such articles furnished.

Judge Cassoday, of the state supreme court, has just rendered an important decision in a will case. The facts connected with the will and its alleged revocation, are these: Mary J. Ladd made a will, in legal form, in the state of New York, July 29, 1870. Upon her death, in Grant county, this state, October 7, 1882, this will was found in the bottom of her trunk, tied up with other important legal papers. Upon the wrapper leaf or blank outside page of the document was found this sentence, written in her hand, by pencil: "I revoke this will. Mary J. Ladd. October 7, 1879." The circuit court for Grant county, affirming the county court, held that the will was revoked by the writing in pencil. From this decision, appeal was brought to the supreme court. Judge Cassoday argued the matter at great length, and found that the attempted revocation, in this unattested and informal manner, was void; the judgment of the county court was therefore reversed, and judgment directed admitting the will to probate.

Two or three chapters of Mr. Blaine's book have been published in the leading dailies in the east and west. These chapters show that his political history will be of absorbing interest. One of the chapters deals with part of Buchanan's administration—that part in which rebellion was festering in the south. In this chapter he deals largely with the late Jeremiah S. Black, the brilliant lawyer and profound scholar, and a member of Buchanan's cabinet. Mr. Blaine justly credits Judge Black with the mastery that lifted the Buchanan administration out of the secession entanglement into which it had innocently but logically fallen. "He fairly invests Black with the rarest and grandest attributes of statesmanship, when he ungrudgingly portrays the patriotism, courage and ability Black exhibited as Premier of the Buchanan reign, as only the most inflexible integrity and patriotism could have inspired Judge Black to accomplish what is credited to him by the eloquent pen of Blaine."

The Sharon Scandal.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 19.—In the Sharon divorce case Miss Hill, the plaintiff, resumed her testimony. She had always made large money in stock speculations, and besides deposits in the Bank of California, had money in the First National Gold Bank. She made $10,000 at one time in stocks through Harry Williams. She denied having told Neil, the son of Sharon, that she had $90,000 of her own money; told him she had lost $60,000 in stocks acting on Sharon's advice. She put the secret clause in the marriage because Sharon said he had a child in Philadelphia and been foolish enough to send the mother (Gertie Cleiz) money. He feared that she would make trouble; but as soon as he got rid of her he would make the marriage public.

Several Failures.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The following failures are reported by telegraph: Shaw & Swaits, stationers, Providence, R. I.; John McAllister, general store, Gruella, Fla.; S. S. Mateson & Co., hardware, Morris, N. Y.; and Kreisch & Campbell, hats and caps, Buffalo, N. Y. Also, J. C. Rousseau & Bros., general stores and planters at La Fourche, La., have failed. They carried on several plantations which they valued at $458,960, and also had several stores in various parts of the parish. Their statement last July showed assets of $193,000, and liabilities of $55,000.

Bismarck in Splendid Health.

BERLIN, March 19.—Bismarck rides daily in the Thiergarten. He seems to be in splendid health. He sits upon his horse with admirable erectness, and rides with vigor. The impression of the reichstag is he has renewed his strength mentally and physically. Current rumors that he has altered his habits, and is now eating and drinking with moderation, were confirmed during his recent speeches in the reichstag. Instead of diluted brandy, his former speech beverage, he took cold tea.

The Salvation Army.

LAWRENCE, Mass., March 19.—The Salvation army held a public meeting in the opera house, previous to which about eighty Salvationists marched through the streets with six drums and several tamborines. They were followed by about four thousand people, who hooted and jeered at intervals. At the opera house a large posse of police preserved order. The services included the presentation of a stand of colors to the local division of the army. The proceeds of the entertainment will probably be $100, which will be applied to fitting up the new barracks.

Dorsey Hits Back.

DENVER March 19.—The Republican's Santa Fe N. M. special says ex-Senator Dorsey has published a letter in The Review in reply to ex-Postmaster General James' assertion that had Garfield taken a lower view of his duties he would not have fallen a victim to an assassin's bullet. "My answer is, if worth while answering at all a creature like James, that while Garfield may have been very low in his views sometimes, as all men are, he struck the very lowest ebb of the low tide when he appointed James Postmaster and McVeagh Attorney General. He caught an evil-fanged crow in one case and a devil-fish in the other.

Will Enter Politics.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 19.—The workingmen will put a separate city ticket in the field this spring. Their convention will be held March 21. An address and set of resolutions have been adopted and 20,000 copies in English and 10,000 each German and Bohemian are being circulated. The workingmen are bearing the whole cost. They are without a boss, and promise fun in the coming campaign. Democratic and Republican organs ignore the movement.

An Exhausted Clergyman.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., March 19.—Rev. John Lyon, who has been missing for some days, was found in New York in a dazed and exhausted condition, and brought to this city. His family physician says he is suffering from great exhaustion, and though answering simple questions intelligently, his mind is evidently affected. His symptoms threaten brain fever.

Gen. Gordon's Life in Peril.

CAIRO, March 19.—In an interview, Zebehr Pasha denied that he had ever been identified with traffic in slaves. He believed that he was regarded with affection in Upper Egypt, and he would guarantee to bring Gen. Gordon, whose life was in peril, safely back to Cairo.

Believed To Have Been Murdered.

DAYTON, Ohio, March 19.—Peter Meyer, aged 69, a soldier of the Forty-eighth Ohio volunteers, was found on the back porch of a house one mile back of the Soldiers' home. Bruises on his head indicate murder. He was carried to the home and died. He never spoke after he was found.

It is a pity to see a poor man whose daily bread depends on his labor, stricken with rheumatism. It is equally sad to see a man with professional business cares suddenly pounced upon by the dread disease and incapacitated for work. S. R. Dennen, D. D., New Haven, Conn., writes: "Was recently prostrated with a sudden and violent attack of Rheumatism. On Friday I began to take ATHLOPHOROS. On Sunday I was in my pulpit. On Monday, went to Boston well, and have been well ever since." With ATHLOPHOROS, within reach none need suffer long nor lose precious time.

MAKING IT LIVELY.

Reed and Townshend Give a Little Life to the House Debate.

About Arctic Expeditions---Passage of the Postal Appropriation Bill ---Compensation for Mail Carrying---Items.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 19.—During the closing debates on the postoffice appropriation bill, Aiken, of South Carolina, said the bill was an attempt to get up a cheap notoriety for economy. Hoar said it should be sent to the senate on brown paper. Bisbee, of Florida, said it was a cheap bill, from a cheap committee of a cheap party, and based on a cheap estimate of the American people. Reed declared that it not only witheld necessary appropriations, but refused appropriations to meet existing law, which would have to be made as the payments could not avoided.

Townshend, of Illinois, defended the action of the committee. The bill had been ridiculed by every clown on the other side, and assailed by every advocate of extravagance, and the defenders of jobs and railroad corporations who sought to raise a false clamor against the bill. He then turned his attention to Reed, and said that every peculator charged with maladministration and every extravagant appropriation sought to be passed found in him a defender.

Reed, referring to the star route cases, said that when the gentleman talked about peculation and extravagance he would find that he voted on a notable case while Townshend was absent.

Townshend proceeded, saying that whenever a peculation appeared Reed sprung to his feet to defend him.

Reed—Name one.

Townshend—I have no time now.

Reed—I want one name.

Townshend—When the gentleman takes his seat and behaves himself I will resume my remarks. He well knows that I have less regard for his opinion of myself than for that of any member on this floor. He attacked me on the floor last Saturday when I could not reply. He is always found defending every railroad scheme and interposing obstacles to every character of legislation intended to put restraint on these railroad corporations. I repeat, this is the most liberal appropriation bill ever reported to the American congress.

Reed said that fortunately the observations of the member from the Shawneetown district of Illinois were made in the presence of the house. There were two classes whose good opinion he desired—his constituents, who know him, and the members of the house who knew Mr. Townshend. If ever he had been found on the side of the railroads it was because he was defending the cause of justice, and while he stood here there was no man so poor or a corporation so rich that he would be found prostituting himself for a temporary advantage. It was the duty of every man to act on his conscience and sense of duty. He would not boast, but he had no occasion to lower his head to any man on the floor. He had occasion in the performance of his duty to say severe things to the gentleman on the other side, but he ventured to say that Mr. Townshend was the only man capable of making such remarks as he had uttered.

The Greely Relief Expedition.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 19.—The president sent to the house a joint letter from Secretaries Lincoln and Chandler opposing the proposition to offer a reward for the discovery and relief of Lieut. Greely's party by the independent efforts of private vessels. They say that there is no difficulty in the search unless the vessels have to push up north of the entrance to Smith's sound, in which case the presence there of private vessels would rather retard the search than otherwise, in that they being unprepared for such work would run imminent risk of disaster, in which case they would become a charge upon the government expedition.

The secretary of the navy has approved a plan for the steamer Bear to leave New York April 25, and to push northward as rapidly as possible to Disco and Upernavik, the Thetis to follow, leaving New York on May 1, and to convey the coal steamer to Upernavik, if practicable, and the Alert to leave New York May 10 and to proceed as far as Littleton island by July 1, so as to build a station and provide all necessaries for the crews of the other two vessels in case of disaster. The Alert, commanded by Capt. George W. Coffin, is to remain at Littleton island sending sledging parties northward to explore the cost of Smith's sound as far as Humbolt glacier. The Thetis, after waiting until Sept. 1 for the return of the other vessels, will return to St. Johns. The Thetis and Bear are to proceed together from Upernavik to Cape York.

The Day in Congress.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 19.—In the senate Hawley introduced a resolution offering to private ship owners a reward of $25,000 for the rescue or ascertainment of the fate of the Greely party. Blair's bill for the establishment of a fund to be used in aid of education in the several states, and divided in proportion to illiteracy, appropriating $15,000,000 the first year and $1,000,000 less each year thereafter was taken up, and Blair made a set speech in its advocacy. At the conclusion of his remarks the senate went into executive session and soon adjourned.

In the house of representatives, bills were reported to bridge the Rio Grande at Laredo and Eagle Pass and the Missouri at Sibley and Leavenworth; to prohibit the mailing of lottery circulars or newspapers containing lottery advertisements; to regulate compensation to railroads for carrying mails, and to grant right of way through the Sioux reservation to the Dakota Central and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul roads. In committee of the whole the postoffice appropriation bill was taken up. An amendment by Reagan to extend the franking privilege to members of congress was lost. The appropriation of $400,000 for letter-carrier was rejected. The committee then rose and the bill was passed.

Secretary Chandler on the Jeannette Inquiry.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 19.—Secretary Chandler has addressed to the chairman of the naval affairs committee of the house a letter transmitting the records and report of the Jeannette investigation. The secretary says that in view of certain reckless statements made by Dr. Collins, upon which the resolution directing further investigation of the Jeannette Arctic expedition was based, he deems it his duty to state that every possible facility was offered to the relatives of Jerome J. Collins. The secretary concludes as follows: "Occasion is also taken by me to assert that all aspersions contained in the petition of Dr. Collins upon the heroic Lieutenant Commander George W. DeLong, the untiring and intrepid Chief Engineer George W. Melville, the truthful members of the court of inquiry, and the navy department are untrue and unjust: and that it is, in my opinion, highly inexpedient as a second pitiless sacrilege to again tear open the graves of the dead for the purpose of indecently calling public attention to what the court of inquiry correctly termed 'trivial difficulties,' such as occur on shipboard even under the most favorable circumstances, and which had no influence in bringing about the disasters of the expedition, and no pernicious effect upon its general conduct."

The Roads Affected.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 19.—The following are the principal roads affected by the clause in the postoffice appropriation bill which reduces the amount to be paid land-grant roads 20 per cent., below that which is paid non-grant railroads: Illinois Central, Hannibal & St. Joseph, Iron Mountain, Chicago & Rock Island, Chicago & St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Central Pacific, Kansas Pacific, Union Pacific, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, Missouri, Kansas & Texas, Northwestern Pacific, Southern Pacific, Texas Pacific and Wisconsin Central.

Gen. Grant's Health.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 19.—Gen. Grant is at the Arlington hotel. He is believed to be slightly better than at any time since his fall. The general is accompanied by Mrs. Grant, Col. Fred and his wife, and Miss Bessie Sharp, of Yankton. They will remain in the city about three weeks.

Compensation for Carrying Mails.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 19.—Money's bill to regulate the compensation of railroads for carrying the mails, which has been reported in the house, proposes a readjustment by the postmaster general on a basis of space, weight and speed. The bill has been amended in committee by the addition of a proviso that nothing shall be construed to repeal or change existing law in so far as it discriminates against land grants and subsidy railroads.

Against Miscegenation.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 19.—The house committee on the District of Columbia heard Representative Bonnet, of North Carolina, in support of the bill to prohibit intermarriage between whites and blacks in the District of Columbia. He cites the statutes of several states and said that there were laws in a majority of states to prohibit this intermarriage.

Nominated.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 19.—The president has sent the following nominations to the senate: Sumner Howard, of Michigan, to be chief justice of the supreme court of Arizona; Case Broderick, of Kansas, associate justice of the supreme court of Idaho; Jacob B. Blair, of Wyoming, associate justice of the supreme court of Wyoming.

Notes.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 19.—The president has sent to congress a joint communication from the secretarys of war and navy departments recommending the offer of a reward for the rescue of the Greely Artic exploring party or any member of it.

Col. D. S. Stanley, of the Twenty-second infantry, will probably be appointed a brigadier general in place of Gen. Mackenzie. Maj. Orville E. Babcock has been promoted to lieutenant colonel of engineers.

It is thought that McPherson's banking bill can not be reached before May, if so soon.

The refusal of the house to take up the Lasker resolution was a great disappointment to those who wish to say something on the subject. The matter was antagonized by the postal appropriation bill, and the friends of the latter won the fight.

An Engine Driver's Heroism.

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio, March 19.—As the Bee line fast express from Cleveland, with engineer Canfield at the lever, was coming like a thunder bolt into West Chester, the engineer saw before him on the main track an empty coal-car, which should have been on the siding. It was the work of less than a second to shut off steam, turn on the brakes, and reverse the engine, but that second, while it saved many lives, was dearly paid for by Canfield, who had not time then to spring from his cab before the impending crash came. He went down with his engine, and it is feared that he is mortally wounded. The fireman, who discovered the car at the same time as the engineer, had nothing to do but to instantly jump. He did so, and escaped without a scratch. The wreck was a very bad one, and trains were delayed several hours. How the coal-car came to be on the main track is not known.

Bribery in the Ontario Legislature.

TORONTO, Ont., March 19.—In the legislature the speaker stated that he had received communication from Messrs. Balfour and McKim, members of the house, the former enclosing the sum of $800 and the latter $1,000 which the writers asserted had been paid them respectively on the understanding that they would vote with the opposition. The speaker, amidst excitement, counted out $1,800 on the clerks table. The letters charged one J. A. Wilkinson and F. A. Kirkland as the parties who offered the bribes. A committee was appointed to investigate the affair. The police court was crowded when the case came up for hearing. F. A. Kirkland, John A. Wilkeason, Edward Meek and C. W. Buntin were arraigned. Counsel for the prisoners applied for an adjournment, which was granted until Friday. Bail was refused. The prisoner's counsel gave notice that he would apply for a writ of habeas corpus.

Lifted Up

A happy surprise it was to Mr. A. R. Norton, of Bristol, Conn., when ATHLOPHOROS put him on his feet, and sent him cheerfully about his business. Let him tell his own story:

"About three weeks ago I was taken with a severe crick in the back. For four days I was unable to turn in bed without help, and when lifted up could not stand on my feet. I was induced to try ATHLOPHOROS, after all the usual remedies failed. In 20 minutes after taking the first dose I could bear my weight upon my feet. In two days I was able to get about and attend to business. In two other cases which have come to my knowledge the use has been attended with the same results."

A poor man in Philadelphia had to borrow a dollar to buy a bottle of ATHLOPHOROS. On account of his poverty his name shall remain a secret. He had suffered terribly from Rheumatism. He gratefully writes:

"I took my first dose Tuesday afternoon, and on Wednesday, after but seven doses, I had not a sharp or severe ache left. Then I reduced the dose one-half and took the remainder of the bottle. I was able to be steady at work till Saturday, when I took a severe cold and was unable to use my left hand. I purchased another bottle and by bed-time I found relief. The medicine is all you claim for it."

Investigate ATHLOPHOROS all you please! Find all the fault you choose with it! and yet the fact remains, that it is doing what no other medicine ever could do for Rheumatism and Neuralgia.

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

ACQUITTAL PROBABLE.

The Prosecution Closes Its Case Against Orrin A. Carpenter.

Some Testimony for the Defense---Acquittal Looked for---A Young New Jersey Miscreant's Attempt at Poisoning.

PETERSBURG, Ills., March 19.—In the Carpenter trial Robert Herman testified to measuring Carpenter's horse's foot. Diagrams of the hoofs were shown to the jury. They were taken by placing a paper on a board, having the animal step on it, and making the outline of the hoofs. One fore foot was shown to be three-eighths of an inch longer than the other. The witness also testified that Carpenter's buggy made the tracks.

One or two other witnesses were examined without developing anything important and then the state rested their case. The defense demanded that they be required to put Frank Simmons, the young man who was with Miss Thomas when he met the couple in the buggy, upon the stand. His name appeared on the back of the indictment and the defense claimed the right to question him. It was argued with much emphasis by Beach and resisted by Forrest and Blinn. The court decided that Simmons should be called. He proved to be a strong defense witness. He was confident the couple they met in coming to church was a young couple. He described the man as about 25 years old, beardless, and wearing a slouch hat. He was positive that it was not Carpenter, as witness plainly saw his face. Forrest vigorously cross-examined him, but his testimony remained unchanged.

In the afternoon the defense began the presentation of their side. A. Esten, the business partner of Carpenter, stated that Chris Lawrence, a state witness, had told him that the horse tracks found beside the girl showed three distinct corks. Witness admitted that he had paid the board of three men who afterward testified for the defense.

Tom Kenyon, who usually shod Carpenter's horses, showed the shoes belonging to the horse. He did not think the animal's feet were very peculiar; had shod many others that were as deformed. Witness had other shoes, and evidently wished to do the defendant as much good as possible.

Mark Starin and Herman Samuels testified that the wheel-tracks left in the lane were one and a quarter inches in width, and that Carpenter's tires were only one inch. The latter stated also that the vehicle tracked perfectly.

Mrs. Wolfsburg, the stenographer who wrote the evidence in the preliminary, testified that the two pins shown by the prosecution were not the ones shown at the former trial. She was positive about one of them. Witness and Blinn had quite a wrangle, to the great amusement of the audience.

Many of the prominent business men and citizens of Lincoln testified as to Carpenter's reputation as a peaceable, humane man. The remainder of the community will be required to testify to the same thing. The case is rapidly nearing the end and Carpenter's chances are good for acquittal it is thought and believed.

Attempted to Poison His People.

CAPE MAY COURT HOUSE, N. J., March 19.—Public feeling here runs high against the 18-year-old son of Mr. George Grace, whose arrest is imminent on the charge of having poisoned his father, mother, two sisters, and two brothers with "Rough on Rats." The boy has been a grief to his parents for several years, wild in his habits and ungovernable in temper. The punishment which Mr. Grace administered to him rather harmed than subdued him. Dr. Downs, the family physician, also keeps the village drug store. Several hours before supper time young Grace entered the drug store and said: "I want some arsenic to poison rats."

"Arsenic is not used nowadays to poison vermin," replied the doctor, "but I can give you some 'Rough on Rats.'"

The youth's sullen face fell and he hesitated, but finally took what was offered to him.

About 8 o'clock Dr. Downs was summoned hastily to the Grace mansion, when he found the entire family, except the little daughter Bertha, writhing in agony. Six patients in such an awful condition at first rather paralyzed his energies, but he soon discovered that the sufferers had been poisoned, and, missing the youth to whom he had sold the rats' bane, asked for him.

"Oh," said Bertha, "it was awful. Pa and ma and the children drank the coffee and I did'nt take any; all at once ma turned pale and screamed, and pa and the boys jumped up from the table, and I thought they were all going to die."

On being confronted with the suspected young man Dr. Downs questioned him closely, and received such confused and contradictory replies as confirmed his already strong suspicions. In the meantime, by the use of antidotes, all the sufferers, except the youngest child, had been relieved of their cramps and retching. The infant is still dangerously if not fatally ill.

No cause for the fiendish act is assigned, save the idea that by doing away with his family the boy might inherit his father's property.

The Iowa Legislature.

DES MOINES, March 19.—The bill limiting and regulating the right of action against incorporated cities and towns was taken up and passed the senate. It provides that there can be no action against towns and cities founded upon carelessness unless such action be within one year, and a failure to give notice of such action for more than sixty days precludes the right of action. The report of the committee to whom was referred the bill providing for the appointment of a superintendent of public buildings and to regulate their construction, was next upon the calender. The original bill had several amendments by the committee, among which was the provision that such superintendent shall perform like service for public school buildings the cost of which is $10,000 or upward at the request of school boards. An amendment was proposed by which such service could be called in when asked in the construction of school buildings costing but $5,000, and the amendment was adopted. In the afternoon a bill providing for a state veterinarian was passed. Bills vainly endeavoring to obtain precedence for his bill against railway discrimination.

In the house a letter was read from Fountain George, held at Fort Madison, under sentence of death, asking for a new trial, to be held in Polk county, and inclosing a statement from those in charge of the prison to the effect that his conduct is good. At the request of the governor his letter and statement were read before the lower house. The afternoon was taken up with the bill allowing townships to vote aid to railways.

Caution.

No. 219 Grant street, Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 28, 1883. Two months ago I suffered with a very bad cough, which kept me awake all night. I was recommended to put on my chest two Allcock's Porous Plasters. Unfortunately my druggist persuaded me to try some other so-called porous plaster. I lost my money, for they were worthless and not of the slightest benefit. I then procured Allcock's Porous Plasters, and they completely cured me. J. F. McGinniss.

Imitation Porous Plasters are being advertised and offered for sale. Beware of them. "Allcock's" is the only genuine.

WATTERSON'S BLAST.

Views of Leading Democrats in Washington City.

The Anti-Free Trade Men Don't Take Kindly to That Sort of Thing --- Spicy Comment.

CHICAGO, March 19.—The Inter Ocean's special from Washington says:

The Watterson dispatch to The Courier-Journal is the talk of the town. It is termed Henri Watterson's ultimatum. The Randall wing of the Democratic side of the house are greatly enraged over it. A prominent Democratic politician who sympathizes with them expresses himself in the following language: "Who would suppose that if the great Henrys of England had signed their state papers with an 'i' it would have added consequence to their edicts? It is true that shool-girls and even old maids bearing historic names have thought that the euphonium was more complete by a change in the termination, but they have never known its power. Nevertheless much importance is given to the symphonious ending of a name. I am led to these reflections from the fact that Henri has spoken for the Democratic party in the interest of Messrs. Carlisle, Morrison, Hurd & Co., reading out of the lines old Democrats who have served the party when Henry, with an "i," was in swaddling clothes. Dana tried to squelch him and his interior paper by using all the blatherskite peculiar to The Sun, but it was 'no good.' They say Dana has gone to Mexico, giving up the great Democratic boom. Henri knew how little anything from his interior paper would affect the general thought, therefore he had his dispatch published simultaneously in leading papers throughout the country. He caught some Republican gudgeons, but The Sun would not print it. What a parody on his stealing-the-news bill. That is not the worst of it. Governor Curtin, Mr. Talbott, of Maryland, Senator Pugh, of Alabama, and a hundred others regard the attempt as puerile, and even Carlisle, Morrison & Co. do not dare to avow their complicity."

Mr. Randall when approached on the subject said he had not read Mr. Watterson's dispatch, but he "had heard of it." It was plain that Mr. Randall did not want to express any opinion on the subject, and the reporter left him.

Mr. Converse, of Ohio, one of Mr. Randall's most intimate and trusted political and personal friends said there was no doubt that Mr. Watterson spoke for Carlisle and Morrison. He was satisfied that it was a fixed movement to compel Democrats to accept the Morrison bill.

Mr. Hoblitzell, of Maryland, another of Mr. Randall's followers, agreed with Mr. Converse as to the authority of Watterson's utterances, but added that "they will have a good time bulldozing me. I will go into a caucus with him," he added, "but I will not be driven by anybody." These gentlemen and other Democrats who look upon the Morrison bill as an unfortunate measure for the party, candidly expressed the opinion that Mr. Watterson's dispatches were intended as a party whip.

One of them, a prominent Democratic member, said: "These dispatches smack of the race-track and gaming-table. They want to drive us into support of Mr. Morrison's bantling, which is not tariff reform at all. It is a delusion and a snare, but the riders and abetters of it think it will serve their political ends. I am as good a Democrat as any of them and will assert my rights as a Democrat." Among the opponents of the Morrison bill it was said that Messrs. Carlisle, Morrison, Vest, and other free traders had consulted together, and that Watterson, who was admitted to the conference, was sending forth these journalistic fulminations with a view of whipping Democrats into subjection.

Some of the friends of Mr. Watterson would not say anything, but there are Democrats among the tariff reformers who do not hesitate to express the opinion that such utterances are misplaced.

Senator Pugh says that the Democratic party does not want to rule any of its members out of the party for opinions sake. He said the caucus, if there is one, should be for a free and fair exchange of views, all acting for the best interest of the party. Mr. Pugh thinks the Morrison bill "a step in the right direction," but he would not, he says, attempt to drive a man out of his party for differing with him.

Senator Garland deprecates the violence of the factionists, and thinks that calm discussion and judgment should prevail. It is remarked by many Democrats that the extreme and intolerant course of the free traders has placed Mr. Randall and his friends in the vantage ground; that it enables them to stand before the country as Democrats who do not insist upon any "ultimatum," but are seeking the party good.

Another Democratic senator, an avowed tariff reformer, said: "Carlisle had no business to attend that free-trade dinner."

Ex-Governor Curtin says he is glad that Mr. Watterson has indulged in his extreme declarations. "It will have an effect the reverse of what he anticipates," said the ex-governor. "If a caucus is to lay down an ultimatum before it meets, the result will be only a skeleton caucus. Men will not surrender their opinions in advance of a caucus at the dictum of a few individuals."

Representative Talbott, of Maryland, says he thinks he is as good a Democrat as Mr. Watterson, or any man who agrees with him, and that "they will have a good time" driving him out of the party.

Mr. Morrison has intimated to his friends that the caucus will be called on Tuesday of next week. The chances of a compromise being effected at this caucus are looked upon as not very good.

Chronic Diseases.

A Special Study for Years.

Dr. F. B. BREWER

Has made Chronic Diseases of the

Throat, Lungs, Heart, Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, Nerves and Blood.

A special treatment for years. He is not a boastful, ignorant pretender, but an educated physician, seeking to do good, by devoting his talent and energies to the treatment of a class of maladies that have been with him a long and patient study. To be able to treat successfully chronic diseases it requires that a physician should be a sound, thorough scholar in the art of science and medicine generally. He should give his entire time to their study, be thorough in his investigations and have a long and varied experience. Dr. Brewer claims to work no wonders or to do any more than any well educated physician can do, who devotes his whole time to the study and treatment of chronic diseases exclusively, and has had his many years of experience. For years Dr. Brewer has visited the the places he now visits, and has obtained his reputation by being honest in his dealings, candid in opinions and reasonable in his charges. Those who are afflicted are invited to call, investigate and decide for themselves. It will cost nothing to do so. Address all letters to

From what we hear said both propositions are liable to be voted down.

—Robins, blue birds and meadow larks have appeared here, therefore spring hath come say the prophets, but all the same don't let your coal fire go out just yet.

The Doctor's Endorsement.

Dr. W. D. Wright, Cincinnati, Ohio, sends the subjoined professional endorsement: "I have prescribed DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS in a great number of cases and always with success. One case in particular was given up by several physicians who had been called in for consultation with myself. The patient had all the symptoms of confirmed Consumption—cold night sweats, hectic fever, harrassing coughs, etc. He commenced immediately to get better and was soon restored to his usual health. I found DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS the most valuable expectorant for breaking up distressing coughs and colds.

VANDERBILT'S BARBER SHOP.

With Something About A Man Known as the Best Barber in New York.

New York Letter in Atlanta Constitution.

Most of the socialists in this city are Germans. The socialists believe in the assassination of monarchs. Our American monarchs are millionaires. William H. Vanderbilt is despotic by two hundred millions. Still, he lets a German draw a keen blade over his throat every day. There is a quaint and jolly old German, with a huge red nose, a perfectly bald head and an immense moustache waxed at the ends, who may be seen any morning in the year going down Fifth avenue with the march of a dissipated Prussian grenadier and the smile of a happy infant. He is gentleness itself. Everybody who knows him calls him Jakey, but he owns the full name of Jacob Aber. Every morning about nine o'clock he stops at the magnificent residence of William H. Vanderbilt, greets the servant who opens the door blandly and goes at once to Mr. Vanderbilts barber shop.

So much has been written about his house that it seems hardly as though nothing new could be told, but many changes yet take place, and in the south wing adjoining Mr. Vanderbilts dressing-room there has been fitted up a barber shop. It is small, and in the middle of it is a chair, made of dark mahogany and inlaid with mother-of-pearl. The base boards of the room, the cornices and the door and window frames are of the same shade of mahogany, and the mother-of-pearl decorations are identical with those on the chair. The chair is of the regulation barber shop pattern. Old Jakey shaves the two-hundred millionaire, and then drifts down the avenue, nodding gracefully to stage-drivers and giving the occasional policeman whom he meets Fifth Regiment salute. He shaves several other wealthy men on his way down and finally ends with Commodore Garrison, on Park Avenue. Then he goes back to his humble home in the lower Bowery and smokes a strong German pipe and plays penuchle with his wife until 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Then he wanders up town again and visits one or two old gentlemen who prefer to be shaved before dinner rather than in the morning. He returns again to the Bowery, goes to a favorite lager beer saloon in Roosevelt street and sits in one particular chair and at the same particular table every night until 11 o'clock. Then he stalks off to bed. He is close to 60 years of age, and is said to be the best barber in New York. He gets his own prices for his work, and probably has older customers than any other barber in the world. He shaved Fernando Wood thirty years.

A Remarkable Escape.

Mrs. Mary A. Dailey, of Tunkhannock, Pa., was afflicted for six years with Asthma and Bronchitis, during which time the best physician could give no relief. Her life was despaired of, until in last October she procured a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, when immediate relief was felt, and by continuing its use for a short time she was completely cured, gaining in flesh 50 pounds in a few months.

Free trial bottles of this certain cure of all throat and lung diseases at F. Sherer & Co.'s drug store. Large bottles $1.00.

A Fair Offer.

The Voltaic Belt Co., of Marshall, Mich., offer to send Dr. Dye's Celebrated Voltaic belt and electric appliances on trial, for thirty days, to men, old and young, afflicted with nervous debility, lost vitality, and many other diseases. See advertisement in this paper.

A False Note.

[Lilian Whiting's Boston Letter.]

A Boston woman, one of more than usual intelligence, remarked to a friend who was engaged in remunerative and self-supporting employment: "I would not do it, not if I had to hang to every relative I had to be supported." So long as this false note pervades social life, so long will the majority of women consider it their misfortune if circumstances lead them into self-supporting life. So long will their work be unsatisfactory and unreliable and illy paid.

Eternal vigilance is the price of success as well as of liberty. Already any woman who can do any one thing well can command the market. She makes conditions rather than accepts those heretofore made. She is sought rather than left to seek. In the exercise of trained abilities she finds a satisfaction that external circumstances can neither give nor take away. The younger women of the day—our college graduates, the Cornell and Vassar and Smith and Wellesley and Annex and Boston university girls—are entering life on this new basis. Their lives will not be of the order that are a weight on the public mind. Educated, intelligent, responsive, with their well stored and disciplined minds, they are the women who will command success and who will make their own conditions. Events are usually the direct products of character. "Events grow on the same stem with persons; are sub-persons," says Emerson. "The soul contains the event that shall befall it, for the event is only the actualization of its thoughts, and what we pray to ourselves for is always granted."

Treatment of Whooping-Cough.

[Popular Science News.]

Dr. J. Cooperider, of Taylorsville, Ind., writes us that he has used the fluid extract of chestnut leaves for whooping-cough, with great success. He says:

The dose employed is from fifteen to sixty drops, according to age. If the child is large enough, I give it in hot water as an infusion, sweetened; to a small child, in simple syrup of elixir.

It not only relieves or lightens the paroxysms, but will actually cure in from four or five days.

I give four to six doses per day, according to the severity of the case.

If good fresh leaves can be procured, I make the infusions as a tea, say two drachms of the leaves to half a pint of boiling water, and give two ounces at a dose, sweetened with white sugar.

Baskets of Seine Twine.

[New York Post.]

Very pretty baskets are made of the seine twine; you can hardly think how pretty they are until you see one. Both work baskets and large ones for waste paper are crocheted of the cord; they are round and may be of shell stitch or the common plain close crocheted work. On the bottom a projecting rim must be crocheted so that the basket will have a firm foundation. After it is finished with a scollop, melt some white glue, dip the basket into it, and shape it over a mould or jar of the proper size and shape. A basket made in this way is very ornamental if two rows of open work space are left in the middle through which bright ribbons may be run. A bow where they join is a pretty addition. Line the basket with silk or satin if you wish it to be very handsome, or with silesia if for ordinary work.

The Better Girl of To-Day.

[St. Louis Republican.]

The hour-glass girl has winged her grasshopper flight to other spheres, and in her stead we have a being who breathes deep down, eats beef-steak, and can run a footrace with any pedestrian on the track. It may not be sylph-like or like a heroine of the Eighteenth century—our spindle-waisted great-grandmothers, who wore a cherry splint two inches wide in their stays in front—but it was awful comfortable to breathe freely and be able to feel that one's ribs are not turned in on the ends like a crochet hook. What impossible looking creatures they were 100 years ago, with broad hips, broad shoulders, and a waist like a wasp!

Avoid the Angles.

[Decorator and Furnisher.]

Brackets are appropriate wherever they seem to fit and the pictures are suspended by double cords. It gives a much better general appearance to a room thus to make the lines leading from the pictures to the ceiling uniform in direction than to show the terrible assortment of angles, impossible to avoid where the cords from all-sized frames are brought to one point near the ceiling.

Paper Racks.

[Arthur's Magazine.]

Take an ordinary hanging rack, plain in front; make a lambrequin for it in colors corresponding with your room; underneath the top center plaited piece make a pin cushion, strap for scissors, spool cotton, thimble, etc., making a convenient hiding-place for articles that are needed in almost every room.

AFTER having used a large number of preparations for Catarrh, I have become satisfied that of them all Ely's Cream Balm gives me the most relief. I can recommend it to any one who may have Catarrh, Cold in the head or Hay Fever. S. B. LEWIS Principal Graded School, Clinton, Wis.

HAIR RENEWER

was the first preparation perfectly adapted to cure diseases of the scalp, and the first successful restorer of faded or gray hair to its natural color, growth, and youthful beauty. It has had many imitators, but none have so fully met all the requirements needful for the proper treatment of the hair and scalp. HALL'S HAIR RENEWER has steadily grown in favor, and spread its fame and usefulness to every quarter of the globe. Its unparalleled success can be attributed to but one cause: the entire fulfilment of its promises.

The proprietors have often been surprised at the receipt of orders from remote countries, where they had never made an effort for its introduction.

The use for a short time of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER wonderfully improves the personal appearance. It cleanses the scalp from all impurities, cures all humors, fever, and dryness, and thus prevents baldness. It stimulates the weakened glands, and enables them to push forward a new and vigorous growth. The effects of this article are not transient, like those of alcoholic preparations, but remain a long time, which makes its use a matter of economy.

TUTT'S PILLS

TORPID BOWELS, DISORDERED LIVER, and MALARIA.

From these sources arise three-fourths of the diseases of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels costive, Sick Headache, fullness after eating, aversion to exertion of body or mind, Eructation of food, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, A feeling of having neglected some duty, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, highly colored Urine, CONSTIPATION, and demand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. As a Liver medicine TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and Skin is also prompt; removing all impurities through these three "scavengers of the system," producing appetite, sound digestion, regular stools, a clear skin and a vigorous body. TUTT'S PILLS cause no nausea or griping nor interfere with daily work and are a perfect

Pedestrians can now cross the most of our streets without being mired in the mud.

—The musicale given by Mrs. Lizzie Bintliff and her pupils, last evening, was a rare treat for those who attended. The programme was an excellent one; and those who took part evidenced commendable skill in executing their parts: Misses Rose Hathron, Rose Wright, Mary Sullivan, and Ida Downing being thus favored, and Mrs. Bintliff may well take pride in having a class to appear so favorably in public. The playing of Mrs. Bintliff was in keeping with her reputation as a first class teacher, and we are glad to note that her efforts in this direction are so well appreciated by our citizens.

—Major F. F. Stevens, whose name has been frequently mentioned of late in connection with the office of city treasurer, desires the Gazette to say that he is not a candidate for that office, and that if the nomination and election were tendered him, he could not afford to accept. His business interests are large enough to command all his time and energies, and such an office would be a detriment instead of a help to him. The major thanks his friends for their good will and confidence, but as his motto is, "business before office," he cannot, in justice to himself, seek or accept any position that would materially interfere with his private business.

About Municipal Reform.

Two hundred and seventy-five citizens of Madison have signed a call for an independent municipal convention. The call contains the names of many prominent business men of Madison, and among them are well known men of both parties. The object of the independent convention is to nominate and elect a ticket that shall secure what Madison needs, and what nearly every city in the country needs—reform in the manner of administering local affairs.

When a practical business man makes a careful survey of the municipal affairs of this country, he will find that there is a condition that loudly calls for reform. By the lack of common wisdom and respectable integrity in the management of the affairs of cities, the municipal indebtedness of this country has reached something like a thousand million dollars, and instead of decreasing, the debt is rapidly increasing with the coming of each year. When one looks soberly at these cold facts he will at once see the importance of municipal reform; and he will also discover that the extravagance which demoralizes, weakens and destroys, does not originate in congress, neither can it be found in the state legislatures, but that it comes from the administration of municipal affairs. Congress may pass a pension bill of two hundred millions and a river and harbor bill of fifty millions, and the people never would, in the slightest degree, feel that it was a burden; but the extravagance that bears heavily on business and which makes a ruthless attack on the pocket-books of the people, is that indulged in by city councils. They have the power to impose burdensome taxes that congress and legislatures have not, and this accounts for the alarming increase in the municipal indebtedness of the United States. Madison feels this and wants reform. Hundreds of other cities, both great and small, are pleading for more wisdom and integrity in the management of city affairs. Janesville has never been cursed with an extravagant city council. However strongly a majority of the council may have been in favor of establishing numerous saloons at a low license, it never can be charged with wasting the people's money by extravagant appropriations.

It very frequently happens that such an attempt as that at Madison to reform the city government, and also like that in Janesville to secure a high license council, fail utterly in brining the needed reform. The reason of this is, where there is an independent movement in this direction it draws largely from the republicans and weakens the party; while the democrats bowing to party dictation, pull together and elect their ticket, which, in nearly every instance, means death to reform of every kind. Our democratic friends may possibly regard this a harsh statement, but it is one that can be confirmed by the experience of nearly every democratic city in the country.

It would be a good thing for the morals of Janesville if the number of saloons in the city were materially reduced from fifty-five, the number that is now licensed; and it would be likewise a good thing if the license were largely increased because every body whose judgment is impartial will admit that $75 is no license fee worthy of the name. The question as to how this much needed reform in Janesville shall be effected, is one which demands much more than a passing consideration.

The Janesville Hay Tool Company

The above company has been organized in this city with a capital stock of twenty-four thousand dollars. The officers of the company are P. G. Strickler, president; W. T. Vankirk, vice president; A. H. Sheldon, secretary and treasurer; F. B. Strickler, superintendent. The company has been formed for the special purpose of manufacturing the "Dead-Lock" hay carrier, and the dealing in hay tools generally. The dead-lock hay carrier was patented on June 1st, by Messrs. Strickler, Miles & Co., of this city, and during the remainder of last season over two thousand of the carriers were sold. The demand being so great for them this season, Messrs. Strickler, Miles & Co., were compelled to seek more capital that they could increase their manufacturing facilities and supply their increasing demand, hence the organization of the Janesville Hay Tool company. The Strickler Dead-Lock elevator and hay carrier is one of the simplest, most durable, and handiest devices of its kind in the market, and has gained for itself an enviable reputation throughout the United States, and at the present day stands without a rival in the line of hay carriers, or for work in warehouses, factories, cotton gins, ice houses, etc. It is an invention which sells itself wherever offered. The company, as now organized, is a solid one, and they intend to put this labor saving machine before the public this season. It was awarded the premium at the Chicago exposition last fall, and also at the Minnesota state fair. The shops of the company will be located in this city, where all the carriers will be manufactured.

No Grease For Him.

"When Greece her knees—Greece her knees—Greece her knees," stammered the embarrassed school boy, forgetting the next line of his recitation. "There' is no occasion to grease anybody's knees," shouted his teacher, "Go and study your piece." Neither is their occasion to grease your hair. Parker's Hair Balsam is all the dressing you want. Restores the original gloss and color to gray or faded hair. Does not soil the linen; not a dye; good for the scalp; prevents falling out.

The Weather.

At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer registered 34 degrees above zero. Cloudy with north wind. At one o'clock p. m. the register was 41 degrees above zero. Cloudy—almost rain—with north wind. For the corresponding hours one year ago the register was 7 and 24 degrees above zero.

This hair may be thickened, weak hair strengthened, and the color restored to faded or gray hair by using Ayer's Hair Vigor.

THE BURNING OF THE CHURCH.

The following poem was read at a recent meeting of the Baptist Church Guild, and we are assured it will be read with interest:

I.

'Twas the night of January thirteenth, eighteen eighty-four;
All day the air was wilder than it was for weeks before.
For many a weary day,
Boreas had held full sway,
Even since the holidays were o'er:
While we are willing subjects of a monarch so severe,
Heaped high the glowing anthracite that it might burn more clear,
Or, if wrapped in furs and woolens we went to walk abroad,
From many a heart went up the cry, "Pity the poor, O, God!
Thou knowest their needs and hardships, and may we try to prove,
By being generous unto them, how much we prize Thy love."
But on this sacred Sabbath day the air had wilder seemed,
And through its hours the shining sun had on the white snow gleamed.

II.

And of this holy Sabbath day the hours of light were o'er,
Our treasures snugly housed at home, we started from the door
To attend the evening service, serene, confiding, calm,
Not dreaming of the sudden grief that should our souls alarm.
With rapid step we walked along upon the trodden snow,
When instantly there was perceived a bright and ruddy glow,
That lighted up the eastern sky, we asked, "Can it be fire?"
But no, for oft a locomotive throws its light much higher
Still, somewhat curious, we hastened on, and soon we met a lad,
"It is the church on fire," he said. "The church, what church?" we add.
Our anxious faces well he knows, and hurriedly exclaims,
"Why yours!" and Oh, the saddening blow to think our church in flames.
We fly the intervening space, when from the brow of hill
We view the scene in sorrow, and our souls with anguish thrill.

III.

Across the street and high toward heaven ascends the neighboring spire,
While just beyond the roof of our loved church is all on fire.
We can not doubt the truth of sight, though much we wish we might,
And bitter tears unbidden, rise, obscuring all the light.
Despondent grief comes o'er us. Gone now our eager haste,
And wearily we creep along upon the snowy waste;
'Tis as when a lover spies his maiden, sleeping, just away,
With eager steps he hastens to surprise her if he may,
With lovelit eyes would reach her, before she turns her head;
Alas! she neither sees nor hears. Ah! lover, she is dead!
Thus, after haste impetuous the very worst we know,
Mournfully we join the throng, with listless step and slow.
And now, behold, the crowded streets are lit as bright as day,
Though hundreds are so very near, yet scarce a word they say,
All speak in tones subdued and low, each countenance shows regret,
Eyes look sadly into eyes, hand grasps hand when friends are met.
Now the large and noble structure seems wrapped in flames embrace:
How soon the strong walls totter! each in anguish turns his face!
The organ too, to us endeared whose tones we loved to hear,
Shrinks and shrivels in the heat, as the cruel flames draw near;
No more are heard sweet sounds from keys by skillful fingers swept.
The record of that harmony is by the angels kept.

IV.

And now, behold, with hurrying steps how men do come and go;
They tear the sacred pulpit from the destiny of woe.
With willing hands and eager feet
Though nearly stifled with the heat,
They wrench the pews from off the floors,
Bear seats aloft, unhinge the doors,
Unflinchingly, untiringly, with rapt and earnest face;
And tore and bleeding hands, they flag not in the race
Brave heroes every one
In the work that they have done.

V.

Upon the cupola do the anxious eyes now gaze;
There hangs the bell, which oft has called the worshippers to praise.
It kept a mournful silence. Twice a hero was this bell—
And now in grief with bated breath, we watched it as it fell.
With ponderous force and quivering sound it strikes the steps below,
It's peals will ne'er again be heard for gladness or for woe.
Ah! when one voice is hushed and still, as it must be one day,
Can it be said that voice was true, and showed a better way?

VI.

Swift, sure destruction follows fast, we, weeping, stand aside,
And recollections of the past, sweep o'er us in a tide;
And thoughts of the endearing ties, that us to one church did bind;
Of efforts made, and zeal displayed, came rushing to the mind,
We thought of Dedication Day, when good and holy men
Offered with earnest prayer that edifice to God, and then
Came back to mind the pastor's words so simple, so profound:
"O God, forbid this pulpit shall give forth uncertain sound."
And the multitude, how great, of the good and sainted dead,
Have been borne from out its portals to their lone and grassy bed.
Through tears we saw the picture of the happy bride and groom,
Joining souls, and clasping hands in the silence of the room,
In a pure and solemn purpose, with the exchange of heart,
Pledging constancy eternal, till only death should part.
There were also formed such friendships, which have ripened into love:
On such unions may there rest peace and favor from above.
Our ears are more attentive, and our eyes see visions rare,
As the echoes seem to come of the earnest voice in prayer;
For to many a youthful heart it has been the sacred place
Where the blessed Savior met them, and saved them by His grace.
How many precious memories cluster 'round the hallowed spot.
Never more—we feel it keenly—shall it be our happy lot
To have a Sabbath home to love as we have worshipped this.
But, happy thought, God lives above. O, what if we should miss
A seat in that blest temple. But look up with hopeful eyes
Upon the house not made with hands, eternal the skies.

Educated housekeepers, who have tried all the Baking Powders, say that Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder agrees better with the stomach than any other make. The best test of its purity is of its being used to-day, as it has been for years in a million homes, and the best test as to its nicety and strength is the test of the oven.

"The Mountaineers Story."

An employee in the Asylum here drew a fifth of the second capital prize of $25,000, In the Grand Drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery, last Tuesday, February 12th., and not the whole $25,000 as the newspapers and he would like to have it. We would give the name of the lucky man, but don't know whether he cares about having his name published. The excitement around Morgantown N. C., and the eagerness with which the newspapers were scanned to find the name of the fortunate ticket holder of No. 99,353, revealed the fact that numbers of our citizens who would never have been suspected of investing in lotteries, held tickets in the Louisiana State Lottery at New Orleans. The 167th drawing will take place on Tuesday, April 8th, when $262,500 will be scattered in prizes under Gen'ls Beauregard and Early's management. All information will be given by M. A. Druphin, New Orleans, La., on application.—Morgantown (N. C.) Mountaineer, Feb. 20, 1884.

Villainous Proceedings.

COVINGTON, Ky., March 19.—One of the most outrageous proceedings that has come up for a long time was before Judge Shine of the Kenton county court. It was an attempt to send Miss Edna L. French, a sane young lady of most prepossessing appearance and demeanor, to the state lunatic asylum, by her mother, step-father and step-brothers. W. D. Creasey, her step-father, is a broker and commission merchant doing business in Cincinnati. Miss French related her tale of wrongs; she claimed that she had been abused for a long time by all of the family, and never been treated except as a menial, and that her step-brothers had choked and slapped her from pure malice and meanness. The judge instructed the jury to find peremptorily for the defendant, which was done, much to the gratification of the people present.

Conclave of Knights Templar.

NORWICH, Conn., March 19.—The annual conclave of the grand commandery Knights Templar of Connecticut is in session here. Columbia commandery entertained the grand commandery and representatives of the New York commandery and grand encampment of the United States at an elaborate banquet. All the commanderies in the principal cities of the state were represented by full delegations. Governor Waller, himself a sir knight, was a guest at the banquet, and made an eloquent speech.

Assaulted the Editor.

BURLINGTON, Iowa, March 19.—J. W. Burdett, managing editor of The Hawkeye, was brutally assaulted in the editorial-room by a local insurance agent named Tom Kelly, and was saved from further personal violence by interference. Kelly gave no reason for his assault, but it is said it was caused by the appearance of a humorous illustrated article on St. Patrick's day in the morning's issue of The Hawkeye.

A Temperate but Satisfying Drink

There has been of late years a demand for roasted coffee of the finest quality as to bouquet and strength in the cup. Dealers, in their efforts to supply this demand, have ordered all sorts of combinations, such as Mocha and Java, Marricabo and Java, &c., &c., without obtaining the elixir they sought. We take pleasure in informing our readers that after many years of search in the markets of the world, Messrs. Bell, Conrad & Co., the enterprising and reliable tea, coffee and spice men of Chicago, have secured a coffee that is a breakfast in itself. This coffee is their Plantation Java, which we take pleasure in recommending to our readers as the finest coffee grown, possessing strength and flavor, the two essentials of a perfect coffee. This Plantation Java is strictly a private growth, and by special arrangement Messrs. Bell, Conrad & Co. will control all that is grown. They guarantee the coffee to suit the most fastidious consumer or the money will be refunded.

All the leading grocers in Janesville carry the Plantation Java in stock. For sale by Conrad & Jones, W. T. Vankirk, Ball & Bates, W. F. Carle, Davies & Bro., S. Holdredge, Jr. Tarrant & Osgood.
